

German Ice Report - No. 05

2018-02-15

There is new ice and up to 10 cm thick ice in some harbours and in shallow and sheltered coastal waters. The ice coverage decreases slowly.

Outlook:

There will be light frost in places overnight also at the weekend so that there may be little new ice formation in shallow and sheltered areas. However, during day temperatures will rise above the freezing point and most of the ice will melt.

The next report will be issued when the ice situation changes significantly.
